PORTLAND, TUESDAY, SEPR. A

THE BENEFITS OF PROTECTION.

Since 1881 the government has enforced a protective tariff. Let us look at the practical results of this policy. We have seen how the low tariffs of 1886 and 1857, devised by the pro-clavery free traders of the cotton states, brought the Nation to the verge of hathruppey and depreciated its credit below that of individual states, Under our protective noher the government never had a fective policy the government never had a better credit than it now has It has re-duced the rate of interest on its bonds to 3 per cent, and can sell them without difficulty any of the financial centers of the world It has extinguished an enormous amount of its war debt. The statistics show that from 136 to 1820, notwithstanding the war when I portations to the states at war with the Laton had ceased so far as they have any reition to the national revenue, the government received revenue from customs alon amounting in the aggregate to $2,863 849 376 which is $122 934,620 more than the public tent in October, 1865, after the cio co of the war. The annual average receipts from cu eeded $159 700,000 These statistics also show that this large mount of revenue was paid upon distable dictes of the value of $8067 239 830 under the operations of the protective tariff of 1861 the operations of the protective units of some and its amendments, thus puncturing the bladder headed plea of the friends of free trade that protection decreases the revenue by prohibiting or lessening importations.

If the tariff of 1846 had been in force during the control of 1846 had been in force during the control of 1846 had been in force during the control of the control

oms for the nineteen years from 1861 to 1880

ing these years, and the same amount of tiable articles had been assessed under it taking the average rate of duty at 24 per the Uz & treasury from customs between 1901 and 1850, which would make our public debt in 1950 that much greater than it was at that thate. If the sariff of 1857 had remained in force, taking the average at the revenue standard of 20 per cent, the amount mo duced would have been $1 130,231 339 less than was received, which would have mide the public debt of 1839 that much greater then it was at that date

than it was at that date

If the question of revenue alone is considered, this comparison is conclusive in favor of the protective system. The government would have been ambarrassed if the acts of would have peen superresord in 1846 and 1867 had not been superseded by that of 1861 with its amendments, for notwithstanding the large importations between 1846 and 1860, consequent on the construc-tion of railroads and the commerce created by them, the revenue reached its lowest int of decline in the latter year, when the credit of the government was so low that its due bills were at 12 per cent discount with few takers at that rate It is clear that if the sanged, and that of 1861 had not been used, the government's credit would have en entirely destroyed and it could not victorion conclusion.

The conclusion therefore is sound that the protective tariff legislation enacted at the begoining of and since the war, was an ab solute necessity. Its fruits are seen to-day in the rapid decrease of our public debt. in he excess of revenue over expenditures and the large accumulation of gold and silver in gress, defended protection to manufactures upon the ground that the power to regulate commerce had been taken from the states sons argument in his message of 1830, when he said

The power to impose duties on imports riginally belonged to the states but the tates have delegated their whole authority neures have delegated their whole authority over imports to the general government facilities the foster our own industry by pro-tered at this indepensable power surrend and by the states must be within the scope of the authority on the subject expressly integrated to gongress.

The power to lay import duties is expressly granted to congress under the constitution but the 'free trader' insists that this essen tial part of the taxing power can only be ex ercised for revenue purposes. Other demo be derived from the exercise of the taxing power for revenue purposes there is no consti-lational inhibition of it but the statesmen to defend protection by such fallactous reasoning. They have never pretended that there was any plausibility to the argument that by virtue of the revenue power alone congress could directly or incidentally regulate commerce with foreign nations but late commerce with foreign nations but have held with Madison and Jackson that this particular power belonged to the several this particular power belonged to the several states before the adoption of the constitu tion, and exists and is exercised by congress to-day not as an imp led power merely but as the result of an express grant.

The framers of the constitution placed

The framers of the constitution placed the ravenue power in one clause of the constitution and that to regulate commerce in snother clause; each distinct and independent of the other, as Madison stated in the first constitution of the constitution to the constitution to congress when debating the proposition to amend the revenue bill by engrating upon It the principle of protection and as Jackson re-affirmed when he declared that the power to protect domestic industry was express; delegated to Congress," and was not merely incident to the revenue power.

The framers of the constitution of the Confederate States confessed that Made or and Jackson's construction of the federal constitution was correct when after adolt ang anostantumly that provision of the constitution of the United States which author tres congress to lay and collect taxes they provided in addition that 'no duties or taxes on importations from foreign nations shall be lead to promote or foster any branch of Industry " The Introduction of this inhibition into the Confederate constitution shows that the programmer free traderic implied and expressed powers to justify the construct on placed upon it by every patriotic American statesman from Madison in 1788 to Lincoln in 1861

Of statesmen of the first rank C dhoun aighe held to the antagoni the state-suprementy view and even fullboun never adopted this view until his hate for Jickson had quenched his love of ountry and he had desired in 1892 to be the patriot ind profec-tionist he was in 1816. Their idea was to make all duties and am posts uniform throughout the states for the purposes of revenue only, and the Mills bill framed by an ex-confederate advocated by the South, in whose interest it is devised is a long step in the same direction and means the introduction of free trade in America

Thomas D Howard in the Unitarian Review gives a most hopeful account of the rapid in provincent made in twenty-five years by the smanulpated negroes, who, to the number of 18,000, clustered on the Sectionals of Bouth Carelina after the capture of Port Royal, late in 1813; They have become possessors, to a large vision, of the soil which they till, and space with having ample grounds for divorce.

The democratic counties in Oregon in 1886 were Baker Benton Clatsop Crook Jick son, Josephine, Klumath Lake, Jinn Mor row Polk Umatilia and Union The demo cratic counties in 1888 are Crook Jackson Josephine Klamath Linn, Maiheur and Umatilla seven in all against thirtoen two years ago and one of these a new county (Malheur) was taken from the democratic county of Baker Another new county Wallowa had been formed but it gave a republican majority. All of the above seven counties were so by a largely decreased ma-cans who defeated the prohibition amend ment in Oregon is absolutely sally The strength developed in favor of prohibition in this state, as shown by the vote for the amendment when no party issues were con cerned, was due almost wholly to the great number of republicans possessing temper ance principles who were willing to give prohibition as an issue by itself a trial in this John, himself a democratic hireling should form, minute a democrate interning should by to make it appear that the republic and defeated it. Portland and til the principal cities of the state are usefuled in the fourtier republican counties in 1881 wherein it e majority against prohibition was given. Had the prohibition amendment carried it might possibly have been enforced in the rural dis the revenue derived from a triffic which can be suppressed only by individual resolve Mr St John's mendacity is therefore so

The prohibition vote in the state which was 2753 in ISSC was only 1974 in ISSS. The candidate each year was the same man George M Miller Mr St John does not give any reason for this falling off of over '8 percent butiliseasily explained There were 779 republic ins who voted for Miller in 1886 who realized after the defeat of the amend ment their folly in throwing away voks upon a prohibition candidate thereby helping out the democratic party to that extent The coming of Mr St John to Oregon lust May had much to do with this result. Had he remained longer as he at first intended Mr Miffer would not have received so many

It will be news to the Oregon state officials both republican and democratic when they read that the railroad and the saloon dictate the policy of the state, and to all citizens that all moral effort that runs counter to this tyranny is hoycotted and if need be crushed nd that even the churches are affected by it. If Mr. St. John will possess his soul iff patience until after the November election he will discover that Mesers. Itsk and Brooks will not poll even so many voter as were given to Mr Mathe last June.

It is not just to say that all enemies of our existing tariff are in favor of free trade be cause there is not a leading statesman living or dead of the republican party that has not been in favor of tariff revision and reviewe enue reform Blaine, Grant Arthur Sherman, and even Senator Morrill have not hesitated to advocate the revision and correction of the details of the protective tariff but to revise the methods of the application of the policy of protection is one-thing and to place an article of American production and con sumption like wood on the free list is quite another A revenue reviser an I reformer revises and reforms within the policy of protection but an advocate of a tirilf for revenue only ends in free trade A revenue reformer may within the policy of protection show that protective duties by the been fixed so low as not to protect in the degree de-sired or they may be so high as to be pro-hibitory and consequently injurious to the revenue. Some duties are placed upon articles which do not enter into manufacture or affect industry and these are levied for revenue alone. Other duties are pinced upon inteles which enter into manufactures and affect industry and should therefore be lind with reference to both revenue and protect on. The true tariff policy should not be constructed for revenue alone or protection. constructed for revenue alone or protection contant the clipping from the Force which is published elsewhere that the people may fully realize its slanderous nature and the effect of the circulation of such a lying statement upon the expected manigation from Eastern states and save the neck of John C Cullioun from the hangman's noose. Baker (ity more than any other town in Origin has felt the influence of the development of a rich mineral region upon the growth and prosperity of the place Baker City is the gateway to half a dozen districts all of which give promise of great wealth to those who have already secured properties and to many more to come A half dozen or more small lowns have spraing up as if by manicand the men who have peopled them are an industrious bard working class. Baker City is the supply depot of all these places and the natural legitim its increase of her trade has brought about an unwonted energy and activity among her citizens. An awakening as to the needs of the town has followed and those improvements which furnish an air of prosperity and which once possessed become necessities are now thought about and sought after Business men who have long lived in a slow roing

As the development of the names of 1 istem Oregon has been as yet only ufficient to furnish proof of their inchies and scenning mexhaustibility the present prosperity or perienced by the place in 1 oint is only a foreignner of what may be expected in the future. Rapid progress has been mide in building

Itapid progress has been mide in building and there has been an increase of trade and of enterprise of all kinds. Fourly branch of industry his expanded new business houses have been started and entered at once into a lively trade not detricting in the least from the older cstal lished firms but filling the requirements of a rapidly increasing volume of business. There has been plant, for all to do and the competition has been a beaufit in do and the competition has been a benefit to The principal improvements now being sought after hy the enterprising cu zens of the place are water works a telephone sys-tem and a street railway. The most important of these is the first named and the people are thoroughly aroused as to its need it will be made an issue at the coming city election and candidates for office who do not pledge themselves in favor of this enter prise will have little chance of success. The welf re of the people and the security of their homes and business interests require the ample protection in case of the which a good system of water works alone can as creases the other improvements will rapidly follow

THE SURPLUS

The surplus revenue is becoming an all by degrees and beautifully less and at present it promi es to amount to a little more than $12 000 000 inched of the $100 000 000 and in rough numbers the appropriations pastd or pending in conference and on the way to cer ain a logition are as solicing wir to cerain r lottion are as follows. Several readers of The Oregonian have expressed a desire to know the exact wording of the section of the Confederate constitution relating to free trade. Article 1 sec tion 8 of the Confederate constitution reads as follows
